Psalm 119:160

The MoneyChangers - 1

And they come to Jerusalem: and Jesus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves; And would not suffer that any man should carry any vessel through the temple. And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, My house shall be called of all nations the house of prayer? but ye have made it a den of thieves. And the scribes and chief priests heard it, and sought how they might destroy him: for they feared him, because all the people was astonished at his doctrine. And when even was come, he went out of the city.

Mark 11:15-19 KJV

“No one can serve two masters... You cannot serve God and mammon [money].

Matthew 6:24 NKJV

For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

1 Timothy 6:10 KJV

The Moneychanger

Jewish law required that the money used for the legally required Temple tribute (half shekel) for sanctuary service be the Jewish shekel, not the official Roman coin of the day.¹ Moneychangers were required to allow exchanges of official coin for the Jewish shekel. They sat in the gate of the city or the Temple and made their services available for a fee. Exchange of money for sacrificial animals was also a part of the function of the moneychanger. Both these functions resulted in huge profits for these moneychangers, especially during feasts when large crowds swelled into Jerusalem. The usual gain was about 4 to 8 percent, and these same moneychangers perpetrated much fraud through their exchanges. These moneychangers served as both banker and financier, and paid out interest for money left in account.² The moneychanger continued his service throughout the centuries with his title varying. At one point he was known as the goldsmith. Jesus described these moneychangers of His day as thieves. These thieves were as evil spirits polluting the “house of prayer,” the physical Temple. Today, that Temple at Jerusalem no longer exists, but God, the Holy Spirit, still resides in the spiritual Temple of the body of each “born-again” believer.³ The spirit that would pollute God’s Temple today needs to capture man’s heart and mind. That spirit is the “spirit of antichrist.”

The Apostle John wrote, in his first epistle, concerning the “spirit of antichrist.” He said that that same spirit was already in the world in his day, and that we (Christians) have overcome that spirit because “greater is He [Christ] that is in you, than he [Antichrist] that is in the world.”⁴ So our battle is, as Paul stated, “not against flesh and blood [people], but against principalities [the principal rulers of the evil spirits], against powers [evil spiritual authorities], against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.”⁵ There is no doubt that Paul is speaking about spiritual warfare against the rulers and forces of darkness when he says that it is “the prince of the powers of the air... that now worketh in the children of disobedience.”⁶ This spirit that works in the children of disobedience is the wisdom in man’s evil heart; the wisdom of the world, or of the princes of the world who have forsaken God for their earthly desires.⁷ In Isaiah, our God is called “Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.” John calls Him “the Word.”⁸ Their God is called pride, lust, and reason. Today there is the spirit of conspiracy in the hearts of evil men.

The Conspiracy in the Hearts of Men

Jeremiah wrote of the conspiracy in the evil hearts of the men of Judah and Jerusalem.

Then the LORD said unto me, Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them. For I earnestly protested unto your fathers in the day that I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, even unto this day, rising early and protesting, saying, Obey my voice. Yet they obeyed not, nor inclined their ear, but walked every one in the imagination of their evil heart: therefore I will bring upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do: but they did them not. And the LORD said unto me, A conspiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem. They are turned back to the iniquities of their forefathers, which refused to hear my words; and they went after other gods to serve them: the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant which I made with their fathers. Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon them, which they shall not be able to escape; and though they shall cry unto me, I will not hearken unto them. Jeremiah 11:6-11

Just as in the hearts of the men of Judah, there is a conspiracy raging in the world. It is a conspiracy that has its beginning in the mind of a created eternal being, Satan. This conspiracy took hold of mankind in a garden planted by God long ago, in which earthly man listened to the promptings of "the prince of the power of the air" and rebelled against his creator.⁹ This resulted in death and loss to mankind, and expulsion from God's garden. The rebellion continued until a flood destroyed the world, and one family of eight souls was saved in an ark.¹⁰ It was Nimrod that furthered the conspiracy when he built a tower at Babel to challenge God. It was this rebellion that resulted in the scattering of the people over the earth, and the forming of nations with diverse languages.

The conspiracy is decidedly religious in nature, despite the political implications. One of the seven churches found in the book of Revelation was Pergamum. Pergamum was the first to erect temples to Caesar Augustus, to Zeus, and to the serpent-god Asclepius (the god of healing). "Satan's seat" describe by Revelation as being in Pergamum may refer to the seat of Roman authority in Asia, or to the religious practices taking place there. However, the great altar of Zeus, one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World was located here. It was the world's largest altar. This was the center of the Babylonian religious system. Pergamum inherited the religious mantle of ancient Babylon when Babylon fell to the Medo-Persians in the days of Belshazzar. The Babylonian priests escaped, at that time, to Pergamum. "Satan's seat, or throne" is thus a literal description of the invisible principalities and power centered at Pergamum. From Pergamum, elements of this religious system migrated into the world's cultic religions, including ritualized Roman Catholic and protestant Christianity.¹¹ The conspiracy is maintained in the belief and philosophy of the secular and religious world systems, and infiltrates the thought processes of the people in the arena of the media and education establishments. It is perpetrated on the masses by what is known a Hegelian Dialectics, where problems (real or created) are presented and exaggerated to achieve the desired outcome or solution.

This is the same conspiracy that is preparing the world for the antichrist system. It is an ancient conspiracy of ideas in the minds of some of our leaders that are taking us down the path toward fulfillment of the end-time prophecies of world government and world religion, as seen in the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation. This conspiracy is the same contained in the five "I will's" spoken by Satan and recorded in Isaiah 14:12-14.

I call the men that perpetuate these ideas the moneychangers, because this spirit seems to be tied to financial gain and power for a few, and feudalistic slavery for many. This same spirit is pervasive in the ideas of those that spread atheistic humanism in our schools and secular society. This same spirit can be found in the ecclesiastic areas where the leaven of false doctrine infects the minds of many of those leaders. Yes, the battle is spiritual, but the signs are seen in the physical realm. We are now going to look at the modern form of the spiritual battle by examining some of the outward signs in a six part series that will conclude in the next issue. Some of you will remember the first three parts under the previous title, Money and the Control of Nations - The New World Order, however these parts have been expanded, and prepare the reader for the last three parts in the next issue. AΩ

The Effect of "Modest" Inflation

G. Edward Griffin, THE CREATURE FROM JEKYLL ISLAND, p. 551.

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

Matthew 6:24

Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

The Goldsmith Has a Plan

Why Prices Go Up

To explain why prices rise, let me tell you a bedtime story. Once upon a time a young woman was shown how to spin gold from straw in exchange for something very precious....Money is something of value used as a medium of exchange. It may be colored stones, fancy beads, gems, coins, or a promise to pay. Early it was found that the local goldsmith's safe was a secure place to store one's assets (for example, gold), receiving a receipt in return from the goldsmith. It was soon discovered that the depositor could use these receipts as a medium of exchange, since they represented actual gold on deposit. Therefore these receipts began to circulate as paper currency.

The clever goldsmith soon realized that it was unlikely that the golden assets in his safe would all be claimed at once, and so he entered into a scheme for profit. He began to loan gold, belonging to others, at interest. He now accepted a promise to pay (notes) from individual borrowers. These notes now represented assets to the goldsmith.

Being enterprising, and of good reputation, the goldsmith discovered that he need not actually give out the valuable gold as loans, but instead the borrower was willing to accept the goldsmith's note saying that it represented gold in his safe. This note was accepted as money. In addition, he soon discovered that since not everyone claimed their money at the same time, he could issue notes for an amount greater than the value of the stored gold, charging interest on the larger amount. We now suddenly have paper in circulation that is not completely backed by the gold in the safe, but by a fraction of that gold and by a promissory note of a borrower. The borrower may or may not repay the loan, but the goldsmith believes that the borrower will pay as promised. The paper of the borrower is now mixed with the paper of the depositor in circulation. In other words we now have more paper value in circulation than we have gold in the goldsmith's safe. Whether or not the loan is repaid is not as important as the interest payments the goldsmith hopes to receive on loans of assets he did not have in the first place (i.e. money created out of nothing). What we now have is known as "fractional reserve banking."

We now have an increase of the money supply in circulation without either an increase of the gold in the safe, or an increase of the goods and services. Either way the money has less value. Prices in a free market are normally set at the highest levels that people are willing to pay. If suddenly we have more money competing for a fixed level of goods and services, the cost of those goods and services will rise because the goods and services become scarcer. For example, if only two people go to an auction to bid on a particular automobile, and one has $2000 while the other has $3000, the most that the auctioneer can get is $3000. Suppose that a third person, with an obsession to own that automobile, shows up at the last minute with $5000. At that moment, the most that the auctioneer can get has increased to $5000. The inflated money supply caused prices to rise. Simply put, you now know what causes inflation. William F. Jasper gives the following definition of "inflation":

Inflation is an increase in the quantity of currency. Its effect is a lessening of the value of all existing currency. When merchants and others ask for more of it in return for goods and services, they are responding — even if they are unaware of the process that has been forced on them — to the fact that the currency has lost value. That value, stolen from all existing currency through the introduction of more currency, was actually stolen from currency holders by the issuer. In virtually all cases, the issuer is either government or a privately-run central bank.¹³

There's A New Goldsmith, And He Has A Name

In December 1913, a banking act was passed in congress establishing the Federal Reserve System. The "Fed" is neither federal, nor does it have reserves.¹⁴ With the consent of the government, the United States turned over the "creation" of money to a private banking system controlled by foreign and domestic banking establishments. The owners of the Federal Reserve banks include Rothschild Bank of England, Rothschild Bank of Berlin, Lazard Brothers Banks of Paris, Israel Moses Seiff Banks of Italy, Warburg Banks of Hamburg and Amsterdam, Lehman Brothers Bank of New York, Loeb Bank of New York, Chase Manhattan Bank, and Goldman, Sachs Bank. A raise in interest rates benefits these institutions, not the United States.¹⁵

Like the goldsmith of old, the Fed works in much the same manner. The establishment of the Fed assures the government an endless money supply for all their endeavors and makes large scale world wars possible. In addition, the Fed or any similar central banking system (Bank of England, Bank of Canada, etc.) has the power to control the economy of the nation for either the good of the people, or as a control of the people. They can create inflation or deflation through their actions.

The British economist John Maynard Keynes, the architect of our current monetary system wrote in his 1920 book, The Economic Consequences of Peace:

[B]y a continuing process of inflation, governments can confiscate secretly and unobserved, an important part of the wealth of its citizens....

There is no surer, no more subtle way to overturn the existing basis of society than to debauch the currency. It engages all the processes of economic law that come down on the side of destruction and does so in a manner that not one person in a million can recognize it.¹⁶

When our President speaks about reducing the “deficit,” he is referring to the amount that the government overspends. Ideally the government, and individuals, should not spend more money than they take in. In the case of government, what they take in is usually in the form of various kinds of taxation. In actual practice the United States government spends much more than they take in. How can they do this?

The Rumpelstiltskin Factor

In our fairy tale, the young woman could be relieved of her obligation only if she could discover the name of her benefactor. When the government puts together a budget that exceeds their ability to pay, they can either raise taxes or obtain a loan. In the first case, the citizen would object and demand that the government “balance” the budget. In the second case, as we shall see, it results in a hidden tax (higher prices) on the unsuspecting citizens at a future time. The average citizen will never connect the dots and trace the loss of purchasing power of their money back to Congress, or the Federal Reserve.

Simply put, Congress in need of funding creates a “bond.” This is a “promise to pay” by the United States government. It may offer to sell the bond to the public, to whom it must pay interest. Usually the Fed offers to buy most or all of the bonds offered. Let’s say that the bond offering is $1 million, and that the Fed has offered to loan the government that amount in exchange for the bond and the obligation to repay, with interest, by the United States. This creates a debt on the part of the United States, the borrower. This is an increase in the “National Debt.” Also remember that the “borrower is the slave of the lender.”

Exactly like the goldsmith, the Fed in turn starts up the printing press and “creates” “Federal Reserve Notes” from nothing, in order to cover the amount of the loan ($1 million) to the United States government. There is now more money in circulation than before, but, it gets even better for the Fed. This money that they have created from nothing represents money that they did not have, and yet they get to charge interest for it, just like the goldsmith of old. That’s worth repeating. They get to charge interest for money loaned out which they never had to begin with! Such a deal! The more money in circulation eventually causes prices to rise, thus acting as a hidden tax on the unsuspecting citizen. There is literally nothing of value behind this money other than the promissory note (bond) of the United States government held in the safe of the modern goldsmith. The big difference is that the safe does not contain any gold. The money is not redeemable in either gold or silver or anything of value. We used to have gold and silver certificates, but no more. This is especially true since 1971 when President Nixon took the dollar off the gold standard. As a result, other countries followed suit until no other country has gold backed currency except the Swiss franc. Currencies are now allowed to float against each other. Now any central bank, group of central banks, hedge funds, or speculators can bring a country to its knees by simply selling a country’s currency at the same time. This floating currency value brings a large pool of speculative money to move electronically around the world due to volatility, allowing “a very sophisticated game of financial rape.”¹⁷ The moneychangers have set up their tables again in the gate of their temple.

Even our coin has been debased. We no longer carry around coins of value. The coins, like the paper, are backed by the debt of the United States government. The sad thing is that the United States government could print all the money they need, interest free, just as Lincoln did with his “greenbacks.”

However, it gets even better for the Fed. When the Fed received the bonds from the United States government they became assets on the “books” of the Fed. The Fed, like Grimm’s Rumpelstiltskin, has the secret of turning straw into gold, for itself. Since they now have an asset of $1 million (the bond), under the terms of the Banking Act of 1913, they can loan out an additional amount of money to other borrowers, at interest, up to 90 percent of the asset value (the $1 million bond). So, with absolutely no backing, other than the $1 million bond, the Fed starts the printing presses again and produces an additional $900 thousand to loan out, for which they receive nothing of value except a promise to pay (another asset on the Fed’s books), with interest. In the meantime, the money supply has increased to a total of $1.9 million on the original government bond, eventually resulting in inflation (higher prices). This method produces enormous returns, for the Fed. It’s the interest that counts, not the repayment of the loan. Repayment of the loan simply causes the valueless money to flow back into the inkwell of the Federal Reserve System.

The best part yet for the Fed is that when they print money, they print only the principal amount of the loan. They do not print enough to cover the interest payments on the loan. Therefore, with each issue of debt currency there is never enough to cover the original loan plus interest. Thus, the debt continues to mount. As the borrower pays the principal and interest, the money in circulation disappears. Borrowers continue borrowing, competing with each other for the available money.¹⁸ The lenders slowly acquire more and more tangible assets of land, buildings, and future earnings of the working population. By the time you pay off your home mortgage you will have paid to the lender several times the purchase price through the magic of usury. Who really owns your house and car? Think about it.

Freebees?

The goldsmith is betting that his unsuspecting patrons never learn the truth about his “fools gold.” The bewildered citizens continue to send their representatives to government to ask for more and more, while the government votes more and more for the citizen. This over-spending is financed on the backs of those same unsuspecting citizens.

To illustrate what has been done to us by this system, consider that a $20 gold piece at the time of the establishment of the Federal Reserve could buy a suit of clothes. That same $20 gold piece today would still buy a suit of clothes. How much paper Federal Reserve Notes (the paper dollars in your wallet) would it take to buy the same suit of clothes? Such a deal!!! The long term stability of gold can be even more starkly illustrated by the fact that the price of a suit of clothes in ancient Rome required the expenditure of the same amount of gold needed for the modern version in 1913. Let me ask you another question. Who is ahead of the game, the goldsmith or the borrower? Which one is in control?

Lest you begin to think that gold backed currency is the answer, consider that gold is scarce. Most of the gold in Fort Knox has been transferred to foreign banks. Most of the remaining gold belongs to the Federal Reserve Banks, reportedly transferred as collateral for the debts of the United States. However, gold is still perhaps the best solution for a stable inflation resistant currency.¹⁹ He who has the gold makes the rules.

The Reality of Central Banking - Inflation, and Deflation

Under the Federal Reserve, money is created out of the debt of the people, not out of the produce and hard work. The national debt at the time of the creation of the Fed was "almost nonexistent." By 1991, the debt had climbed past a trillion dollars.²⁰ Interest payments on this debt amounted to approximately 300 billion dollars annually.²¹ Today (1998) the interest payment amounts to $358 billion dollars per year, and the national debt is expected to exceed 7 trillion dollars by the year 2008. Today Congress and the President are lauding the reduction of the deficit in the current budget (1998). Senator Hollings (D-SC), however, claims that the deficit seems smaller because the government numbers do not take into account the raiding of Social Security and other trust funds to pay for the government "spending sprees."²² This truly brings home the fact that indeed the borrower is the slave of the lender. This interest must be paid out of the taxes of the citizens. Never mind the debt itself, we can't imagine that we, much less our children, could ever repay such a staggering amount, and also keep up the interest payments! Remember though, the money on which we pay interest was created from the inkwells of the Federal Reserve, not from gold in their safe. Incredible! In the end, Rumpelstiltskin was after something far more precious than the gold he showed the girl how to spin from straw. He wanted her baby.

Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, Sr. testifying before a congressional committee on the 15th of December 1911, after the introduction of Senator Aldrich's plan for a central banking system, said that this plan was formed as a "scheme plainly in the interest of the Money Trust."²³ He went on to say that, the Money Trust would create "another panic, if necessary, to intimidate the people" into acceptance of what was eventually to become the Federal Reserve Act, which was itself fashioned by and for the Money Trust.²⁴ The House Banking and Currency Committee in 1913 objected to what was now referred to as the Aldrich Bill. The Committee's main concerns were "lack of adequate government or public control." They objected to the fact that voting control would be in the hands of the large banks in the system, and subject to the inherent extreme danger of inflation of the currency, plus other concerns.²⁵ What finally became the Federal Reserve Act, ultimately incorporating essentially the same objectionable provisions, was passed in December of 1913.

Congressman Charles A. Lindberg, Sr. made this comment on the floor of the House of Representatives, on 22 December 1913, on passage of the Banking Act of 1913 (Federal Reserve Act):

*This Act establishes the most gigantic trust on earth. When the President signs this bill, the invisible government by the Monetary Power will be legalized.... The worst legislative crime of the ages is perpetrated by this banking bill.*²⁶

The Federal Reserve is "owned by private stockholders who use the credit of the Government for their own profit," and "controls the nation's money and credit resources," and is "a bank of issue which would finance the government by 'mobilizing' credit in time of war."²⁷ The banks that benefit from the interest payments on the "loans" to the government, by the Fed, are the same banks that planned the Federal Reserve Act of 1913.²⁸ They are also the banks that profit from the "inexplicable fluctuations of monetary growth and interest rates." Throughout the year, these fluctuations of money growth vary from 0 to 17% "but no actual year to year changes...." The Fed has resisted stability of monetary growth with apparently no other reason but that these fluctuations are the source of enormous profits.²⁹ To this end, they have opposed any legislation to stabilize the monetary system.³⁰

The concern of the danger of inflation by such a system has certainly come to pass. It should also be noted that the system can restrict the issue of notes, causing deflation, such as occurred between 1929 and 1939 (the Great Depression).³¹ The actions of the Fed that triggered the Great Depression of 1929 were planned at a luncheon of the Federal Reserve Board and heads of European central banks in 1927.³² The Great Depression "centralized nearly all power in this country in the hands of a few great trusts."³³ It moved gold out of the United States to the countries of Europe to bolster their gold backed currencies.³⁴ According to financial consultant Joan Veon:

*[T]he monetary system of the United States is in the hands of a very few very wealthy and powerful individuals who control virtually every aspect of our economy. What this means is that the power of the Federal Reserve exceeds and supersedes that of our president and Congress. The Federal Reserve is not accountable to them; it has never published an annual report and its meetings are not reported to the press until six months after a monetary decision, and they pay no taxes!*³⁵

It should be further noted that the Federal Reserve has never been audited.³⁶

According to Col. Curtis B. Dall in F.D.R., My Exploited Father-in-law: "Actually it was the calculated 'shearing' of the public by the World Money-Powers, triggered by the planned sudden shortage of the supply of call money in the New York money market" that brought about the crash of 1929.³⁷

Even before the Great Depression, leading up to 1920, farmers were particularly prosperous. They deposited their earnings in banks that were not part of the Federal Reserve System, and bought land on credit. The Fed, in order to break the non-member banks, raised interest rates while protecting manufacturers and merchants, and denying credit to farmers and workers, thus causing the Agricultural Depression of 1920-21. William Jennings Bryan wrote in 1923: "The deflation of the farmer was a crime deliberately committed."³⁸ Remember that Congressman Lindbergh, in a speech to the House after passage of the Federal Reserve Act, said that: "When the President signs this bill, the invisible government by the Monetary Power will be legalized."³⁹ Who is in control? We have seen that the stock of the Federal Reserve is owned by banks whose principal stockholders are the Rothschilds, Warburgs, and the Rockefellers, among others.⁴⁰ In fact, the list of principal stockholders of these controlling banks shows a direct connection to London.⁴¹ A number of banks holding stock of the Federal Reserve are subsidiary of foreign banks, especially London banks.⁴²

According to Col. Elisha Ely Garrison, in his book Roosevelt, Wilson and the Federal Reserve Law (1931), German born Paul Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb and Company (one of the most powerful of the New York bankers, and a member of the German Warburg banking family) was responsible for the Federal Reserve Act. Col. Garrison revealed that the "mastermind" of the Aldrich Plan and the Federal Reserve Act was Baron Alfred Rothschild of London.⁴³ Another revealing bit of information is that Colonel Edward Mandel House, President Wilson's closest advisor, wrote in his novel, Philip Dru, Administrator (1912), the vision of the future government of the United States "which would establish Socialism as dreamed by Karl Marx," predicted "the graduated income tax, excess profits tax, unemployment insurance, social security, and a flexible currency system."⁴⁴ Many of the socialist ideas expressed in that book were actually enacted into law during the Wilson, and later the Roosevelt administrations.⁴⁵ We might well ask, "Who is Caesar?"

Who are the Rulers?

The evils of central banking were well known by previous Presidents who resisted their formation. Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and Abraham Lincoln are three who refused. It is interesting to note that at least two Presidents were assassinated after acting or speaking contrary to the tenants of central banking (Garfield and Lincoln).⁴⁶ According to Craig Roberts, a third President, Kennedy, was assassinated shortly after he began to print money (4 billion dollars) separate from the authority of the Federal Reserve. This was done by presidential order (EO 11 and EO 110) in 1963.⁴⁷

According to the Constitution, the power that has been given to the Fed (private bankers) rightfully belongs to Congress. Congress has failed in that duty. The Federal Reserve Act bypasses this requirement of the Constitution. In effect, Congress has not only turned the power of controlling our money supply over to a private bank, but a private bank controlled by international bankers without loyalty or obligation to the United States of America. Senator LaFollette publicly proclaimed that a money trust of fifty men control the United States, but J. P.

Morgan partner George F. Baker responded that he had personal knowledge that no more than eight men ran this country.⁴⁸

Open your wallet or purse and pull out a one-dollar bill. Look at it. At the top is written "Federal Reserve Note." Realize what you are holding represents one dollar of debt that the United States Government owes to the Federal Reserve, and that for this privilege you are obliged, by your taxes, to pay interest on that debt. It would seem that the Federal Reserve is Caesar, since that name is prominently displayed on our money. Moneylenders, in 14th century Spain, first succeeded in guaranteeing money loaned to the state by taxes levied on the people.⁴⁹ Taxes are collected from the citizen to guarantee and pay the interest on the debt created when the Fed prints money out of thin air.

During the reign of William of Orange and Mary (1689-1694), the moneylenders gained concessions from the British government in return for consolidating the national debt. In return the moneylenders would have, in part, the following:

That the names of those who made the loan remain secret; and that they be granted a Charter to establish a Bank of England.

That the directors of the Bank of England be granted the legal right to establish the Gold Standard for currency by which —

They could make loans to the value of £10 for every £1 value of gold they had on deposit in their vaults.

*That they be permitted to consolidate the national debt; and secure payment of amounts due as principal and interest by direct taxation of the people.*⁵⁰

If they were allowed to make loans at 5% interest of 10 times the value of the gold on deposit, during the first year they would receive a return equal to 50% of the value of the gold they had on deposit.⁵¹ The Federal Reserve is allowed to make similar loans without any backing at all!

It is interesting to note that the Bank of England was established in 1694, and Great Britain was the first country to enact a general income tax, in 1799, to finance the Napoleonic Wars. It is even more revealing to realize that our own current income tax was established by law the same year in which the Federal Reserve Bank was created, in 1913.⁵²

If the Fed can print money from nothing, why can't the U. S. Treasury? Treasury Notes, "Greenbacks," were printed by Lincoln, without having to pay interest to a central bank. Some issues of Treasury Notes were printed up to, and including, the time of Kennedy.⁵³ If government can, and has, printed money with no backing, then why do we need to pay income taxes at all? A simple answer is that we don't, but the government would then not be able to hide the truth that inflation is a hidden tax, deliberately perpetrated on the people, to finance their wars and schemes. A second reason for taxation, particularly progressive taxation, is that social planners use it against the middle class as a weapon. Money is taken from the middle class and used by the government. The argument is that this action will prevent the middle class from bidding up the prices. The scheme is also said to redistribute wealth from one class of citizen to another, "but the real objective is to override the free market and bring society under the control of the master planners."⁵⁴

The real effect of inflation is the confiscation of our purchasing power by government. If a modest inflation of 5 percent can be sustained over a 20 year period, the government will have confiscated 64 percent, while in 40 years it will have taken 90 percent.⁵⁵

Permit me to control the money of a nation, and I care not who makes the laws.

Mayer Amschel Rothschild

Who are the rulers? As we shall soon see, Mayer Amschel Rothschild said: "Permit me to control the money of a nation, and I care not who makes the laws."⁵⁶ Ask yourself, who's in control? Is it the bankers behind the Fed, or is it the elected Government of the United States? A serious consideration of the answer may change the way you perceive your Government, as well as the meaning of world events. AΩ

For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver shrines for Diana, brought no small gain unto the craftsmen; Whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth. Moreover ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying that they be no gods, which are made with hands: So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought; but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be despised, and her magnificence should be destroyed, whom all Asia and the world worshippeth. And when they heard these sayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians. And the whole city was filled with confusion: and having caught Gaius and Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, Paul's companions in travel, they rushed with one accord into the theatre.

Part 2

The Goldsmith's Name Has a Plan

History - Accidental or Conspiratorial?

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt is reported to have said:

In politics, nothing happens by accident. If it happens, it was planned that way.¹

There are basically two views of history, the Accidental and the Conspiratorial views. In the Accidental view historical events generally occur by accident, while in the Conspiratorial view historical events are the result of design or reasons that are not generally revealed to the public.²

Mention conspiracy to Rush Limbaugh and it sends him into a tirade. It's the forbidden topic in the media. Mention the "C" word to the telephone screener of a radio talk show, and you most likely will not get on. In 1955, the famous journalist Westbrook Pegler's highflying career ended after writing critically about the Federal Reserve, mentioning Col. House's book (Philip Dru, Administrator),³ Jekyll Island,⁴ Warburg, Rockefeller, Morgan, and Jacob Schiff. He connected them to members of the Communist conspiracy then raging, specifically Alger Hiss, Harry Dexter White, and others.⁵ Today, according to media propoganda, if you believe in a conspiracy you must be a conservative right wing extremist. Worse yet, you are probably a Christian fundamentalist religious wacko. However, there are some in high places whose writings or speech seems to support the conspiratorial view.

Senator Barry M. Goldwater in his book, With No Apologies, wrote:

What the Trilaterals truly intend is the creation of a worldwide economic power superior to the political government of the nation-states involved. As managers and creators of the system they will rule the world.... In my view, the Trilateral Commission represents a skillful, coordinated effort to seize control and consolidate the four centers of power: political, monetary, intellectual and ecclesiastical.⁶

He is referring to control of government (political), banking (money), education (intellectual), and religion (ecclesiastical). The Trilateral Commission is an organization founded and controlled by David Rockefeller. The moneychangers again! Ralph Epperson believes that the:

Conspiracy's one unchanging purpose has been to destroy all religion, all existing governments, and all traditional human institutions, and to build a new world order upon the wreckage they have created.⁷

If that is truly their goal, with the help of our leaders, they are right on schedule. If that is not their goal, then we surely have some of the most inept leaders we could imagine. Rowen Gaither, the President of the Ford Foundation, told Norman Dodd⁸ that:

All of us here at the policy-making level have had experience, either in the OSS, or the European Economic Administration, with directives from the White House.... The substance of them (the directives) is that we shall use our grant-making power so as to alter our life in the United States that we can be comfortably merged with the Soviet Union.⁹

The understanding was that the standards of the American way of life would be intentionally lowered.

Rene A. Wormser revealed in his book, Foundations: Their Power and Influence, that the Congressional "Reese Committee" found that:

In the international field, foundations, and an interlock among some of them and certain intermediary organizations, have exercised a strong effect upon our foreign policy and public education in things international. This has been accomplished by vast propoganda by supplying executives and advisors to government and by controlling much research in this area through the power of the purse. The net result of these combined efforts has been to promote "internationalism" in a particular sense - a form directed toward 'world government' and a derogation of American "nationalism."¹⁰

In this way the Federal Reserve Bank and other central banks in the world have gained the ascendancy over the sovereignty of the nations. Even President Woodrow Wilson, who served the "Money Trust," wrote:

*There is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive that they better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it.*¹¹

Winston Churchill wrote in 1920:

*From the days of Spartacus—Weishaupt to those of Karl Marx, to those of Trotsky... This world-wide conspiracy for overthrow of civilization... has been steadily growing.*¹²

Louis T. McFadden, Congressman and Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee said on the floor of the House of Representatives on 10 June 1932:

*Some people think the Federal Reserve banks are United States Government institutions. They are not government institutions. They are private credit monopolies which prey upon the people of the United States for the benefit of themselves and their foreign customers. The Federal Reserve banks are the agents of the foreign central banks. Henry Ford has said, "The one aim of these financiers is world control by the creation of inextinguishable debts." The truth is the Federal Reserve Board has usurped the Government of the United States by the arrogant credit monopoly which operates the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Banks.*¹³

The "inextinguishable debts" that Mr. McFadden refers to is the "debt burden" created from nothing (the "national debt") that exceeds the entire money supply in circulation. To attempt the repayment of this national debt would require all the money in circulation to disappear into the inkwell of the Federal Reserve system from whence it came. After several attempts on his life, Louis T. McFadden died mysteriously in 1936.¹⁴

Admiral Chester Ward, former Judge Advocate General of the U.S. Navy and former member of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), wrote in 1975 that the CFR has as a goal:

*[S]ubmergence of U. S. sovereignty and national independence into an all-powerful one-world government. ... [T]his lust to surrender the sovereignty and independence of the United States is pervasive throughout most of the membership.*¹⁵

As we will soon see, the threads of conspiracy, though vigorously ridiculed by the mainline media, find support in the writings of a history professor at prestigious Georgetown University.

The Round Table

William Jefferson Clinton, in accepting the nomination of the Democratic Party for President of the United States, made reference to his "mentor" while he was at Georgetown University, Carroll Quigley, and Professor Quigley's book Tragedy and Hope.¹⁶

Tragedy and Hope is a history of the world that describes a secret organization of influential men and groups so arranged with an inner and outer circle.¹⁷ Professor Quigley related that he had studied and had been permitted to examine the records of this organization and generally agreed with their goals.¹⁸ It is significant that Bill Clinton mentioned this book since it essentially describes the setting up of "Round Table Groups," as advocated by Cecil Rhodes, throughout the world to "federate the English-speaking peoples and to bring all the habitable portions of the world under their control."¹⁹ According to Quigley this was the purpose for which Cecil Rhodes established the Rhodes Scholarships at Oxford.²⁰ William Jefferson Clinton was a Rhodes Scholar. Quigley also wrote that:

*[T]he powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences.*²¹

Tragedy and Hope, originally published by The Macmillan Company in 1966, was suppressed shortly after release.²² Only recently has the book been reprinted.

The Council on Foreign Relations, in the United States, mentioned as one of these Round Table Groups,²³ was established in 1921 by Colonel Edward Mandell House, Walter Lippmann, and John Foster Dulles, among others; with money supplied by J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Bernard Baruch, Paul Warburg, Otto Kahn, Jacob Schiff, and others. The Money Trust again! Would it surprise you to learn that David Rockefeller has been among its leadership, and that George Bush was a director. Other members include most of our Secretaries of State, much of the State Department, the movers and shakers of the media, military, educational establishment, as well as banking. Is it any wonder that we never seem to hear anything about this group so represented by the establishment elite and media? Oh, I should mention that Article II of the Bylaws requires that the meetings of this group remain secret.²⁴ Other secret groups, with similar goals, include the Royal Institute of International Affairs, the Bilderbergers, the Club of Rome, and others, to mention a few.²⁵ The groups interlock with some of the members of one also belonging to, or attending, one or more of the others. This includes Henry Kissinger, David Rockefeller, and former President Clinton.

For an understanding of the modern thread of conspiracy, two significant events of history need be studied, the rise of the House of Rothschild, and the founding of the Illuminati by Adam Weishaupt.

The Goldsmith's name is Rothschild

The little goldsmith shop in Frankfort, Germany, in 1773, was identified by the red shield sign that hung in front.²⁶ The goldsmith, Mayer Amschell Bauer, would later be known by that sign, for Rothschild means red shield.²⁷

It is reported that a gathering of wealthy men came to hear the goldsmith outline his plan to pool their wealth in order to loan money to nations (on either side of any conflict or ideology), for purposes of control, and to bring about a new order. That plan contained many points that included:

*Create hatred and distrust of the ruling class;
Promote liberalism to gain power from the electorate;
Operate in secret;
Use alcohol, drugs, and vice to corrupt the youth of all nations;
Seize property by any means; control all candidates for public office;
Control the media; and use contrived and controlled panics and financial depressions to eventually establish world government, a new order of one world government controlled by them.²⁸*

The slogan of this group would be "Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity."²⁹ It would only be a few years and the leaders of the French Revolution would use the same slogan. Coincidence?

Mayer Amschell Rothschild is quoted as saying: "Permit me to control the money of a nation, and I care not who makes the laws."³⁰ Mr. Rothschild established his five sons in Frankfort, London, Vienna, Naples, and Paris. They began to influence the various governments by indebting them to the House of Rothschild. The House of Rothschild eventually established agents in the United States by links to such American bankers as J. P. Morgan by way of his London connection.³¹

Napoleon went against the bankers by establishing an independent Bank of France with himself as president. He also refused to borrow, further angering the bankers. Rothschild supplied gold to the Duke of Wellington to finance the destruction of Napoleon.³² Similarly, Lincoln may have angered the moneychangers by his reluctance to borrow to finance the Civil War. There is some evidence that Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, had ties to the International Bankers.³³ Certainly, in the case of Lincoln's assassination, a conspiracy trial took place and four were hung, including one woman.³⁴

Due to the vast Rothschild communication network, Nathan Rothschild was able to gain control of the English government by large purchases of government bonds. This was accomplished by advance knowledge of Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo; and deception, causing the London bankers to believe that England had been defeated, thereby creating panic selling at reduced prices.³⁵ The Rothschild connection and influence continues today. Their fortune grew as a result of Mayer Rothschild using the practice of fractional reserve banking, the method of maintaining reserves (e.g. gold) of only a fraction of the paper notes distributed as loans.³⁶

We have been describing a vast conspiracy that has existed for hundreds of years. How is it possible that it could have succeeded for so long?

Why Conspiracies Succeed

Someone once asked me, "If there is a conspiracy, how is it that we haven't heard of it, and the people rise up to stop it?" The answer is there to find, if you look. In fact, it's quite out in the open now. A few years ago, I advised someone to watch the nightly news for a year with the idea that our government is leading us into a one-world government controlled by the United Nations. If that is true, it affects our Constitution, with its unique Bill of Rights, and sovereignty as an independent nation. At the end of the year that person returned and said that I was absolutely right in my assessment of what is happening. It's a matter of listening with an awareness of motives. These people succeed because of an uninformed electorate that has been propagandized by a controlled media (these same people own the media), and a general apathy of the citizenry, willing to let other people think for them while they watch Monday Night Football or their favorite soap opera. We get caught up in the "Spin Doctor's" web of deceit.

The totalitarian control of people, by an oppressor, usually begins with prohibiting gun ownership. This was done in both Germany and Russia. That effort is underway in the United States now. The ownership of guns is a protected right under the Second Amendment of our Constitution. That right was placed there so that a future citizenry would have the capability of reclaiming our country should the government become tyrannical.³⁷ It is simply a matter of influencing the masses (by media manipulation) to demand gun confiscation. Don't be fooled. Statistics show that crime, as well as violent crime, decreases in communities that permit its citizens to carry concealed weapons (See graphs on page 16).³⁸ The confiscation of weapons has less to do with the protection of the citizens than with the protection of the government and the direction it is planning to take.

The control of people is effected by what is called Hegelian Dialectics. Dialectics is a system where a crisis is created (real or promulgated) to cause the people to demand that the government provide a solution. The government then steps in with the prearranged fix (perhaps new laws), which the people would otherwise have not accepted. The people respond with, "I don't like it, but I guess it was needed, thank you for your help." Since the "oil crisis" of the 1970's, our people have accepted much higher gasoline prices. Before we went into Somalia, the media fed us daily doses of graphic portrayals of starving children; we needed to act to save the children. Once we arrived, what happened to the pictures and reporting, by our media, of the starving children? Likewise, our media is now focused on the evils of gun ownership and the need for severe gun control legislation. There are many, many examples that could be given.

There are those that the people trust, who speak like them, who infiltrate their ranks dressed in sheep's clothing, and further befuddle the citizens, but are ravenous wolves. These are the smooth talkers on both sides of the issues, that tickle our ears with appealing speech, convincing us that they are one of us by bringing a modicum of truth, but injected with poison. The masses have always trusted them. We need to watch! America's "prejudices are being fed with carefully prepared propaganda, specifically designed to gender strife and to create an attitude of total helplessness among the populace. The government will protect us. What we are witnessing is a diabolically effective form of subliminal seduction. The schools, the media, and the ultra-liberal court system are all playing major roles in this deadly process."³⁹

One last thing, ask yourself, "What form of government do we have?" Do you know? We hear almost daily from our leaders and the media that we have a democratic form of government. Wake up America, when did this happen? The Pledge of Allegiance says that we have a republic ("And to the REPUBLIC for which it stands..."). We have a constitutional republic, superior to a democracy. There is a huge difference. Maybe this needs to be a topic for a future article. For now, suffice to say that democracies are short lived.

Do not lose heart. I've read the last chapter of Revelation. We won! But that does not excuse us. Some day we will have to account for our apathy, as individuals, and as a nation.

And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication. And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb: And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.
Revelation 14:8-11 KJV

But the Lord says:

And behold, I am coming quickly, and My reward is with me, to give to everyone according to his work. Revelation 22:12 KJV

Blessed are those who do his commandments, that they may have the right to the tree of life, and may enter through the gates into the city. Revelation 22:14 KJV

Someone once asked me: "What's wrong with world government?" The answer to that question is that it will mean the end of our nation's constitution, with the unique Bill of Rights protecting the rights of the individual against the tyranny of the government. Ultimately, there will be no place to hide from oppression should that world government prove to be tyrannical.

We will now examine the founding of the Illuminati on 1 May 1776. AΩ

Plato

Part 3

Heading Toward World Government

Plato has truly said, "Come now, dear friend, what is the nature of tyranny? As to its origin, it is fairly obvious that it is a transformation of democracy."¹ It was not a democracy that we were intended to have, but it is what we have become. Three events occurred in 1776, which had a profound effect on the 20th century. The Declaration of Independence was written, precipitating "the shot heard around the world." Adam Smith published his Wealth of Nations that "provided the ideological foundation for capitalism and the Industrial Revolution." Adam Weishaupt founded the Illuminati, which would set the framework for Communism.² You will find the first event widely recorded in history books, many will report the second, but seldom will you learn about the third event.³ In his monumental work, Memoirs Illustrating the History of Jacobinism, A. Barruel wrote that the Illuminati was:

*[T]he conspiracy of the Sophisters of Impiety and Anarchy against every religion natural or revealed; not only against kings, but against every government, against all civil society, even against all property whatsoever.*⁴

The Illuminati

Adam Weishaupt was born in Bavaria in 1748. Jesuits had educated him, and even though he became professor of Canon Law at the University of Ingolstadt, he was a devoted atheist.⁵ He seduced his brother's widow and murdered, by abortion, the offspring of that illicit affair, and in the end escaping, by guile, the punishment of that crime.⁶

It is said that a Jutland merchant who had lived previously in Egypt initiated Weishaupt into secret orders. He studied the mysteries of Manichaeism. He combined the hatred of God with the destruction of all civil and political laws and the overthrow of all religion. His obsession was the overthrow of "every religion, every government, and all property whatsoever." This obsession led him to believe that he could convince the world to follow these ideas.⁷

He planned an ambitious revolution. To that end, he planned and founded a secret society that would operate by methods similar to religious orders, such as the Jesuits, designed to send his disciples to spread his form of world revolution to all parts of the world.⁸ On 1 May 1776, his new Order of Illuminees, or the Illuminati, was founded. Weishaupt began at first to initiate students at his university. This was the same organization that under the name "Jacobin" fomented the French Revolution.⁹ The modern equivalent of Jacobinism is Bolshevism.¹⁰ According to Weishaupt:

Liberty and Equality are the essential rights that man in his original and primitive perfection received from *nature. Property struck the first blow at Equality; political Society, or Governments, were the first oppressors of Liberty; the supporters of Governments and property are the religious and civil laws; therefore, to reinstate man in his primitive rights of Equality and Liberty, we must begin by destroying all Religion, all civil society, and all property.*¹¹

The thinking of Weishaupt, as with the pure Communist, is that the inequities of the world, where some have and some have not, are based on the ownership of property. If one were able to abolish property ownership and redistribute the wealth, or have everything held in common, everyone would be able to enjoy the blessing of plenty, and wars and man's inhumanity to man would cease, or so the theory goes.¹² However, if one were merely to redistribute the wealth equally, it would soon become unequal as men have different capabilities, and ruthless greed and a lust for power drive many. Moreover, an equal distribution would only tend to make everyone equally poor.¹³ The solution of the pure Communist is that the wealth is to be held in common with no private ownership allowed.¹⁴ The basic idea of Communism was not the brainchild of Karl Marx, but was tried for a while by the early Church (Acts 4:32-37) and was later revived in the twelfth century, and as a movement has been in operation since.¹⁵ Revolutionary Communism can trace its roots from Pythagoras, Plato, and Thomas More's Utopia, whose philosophical ideas were used by Rousseau through which the fomenters of the French Revolution were inspired.¹⁶ The whole principle of the Communists is found in these words of Rousseau:

*Beware of listening to this imposter; you are lost if you forget that the fruits of the earth belong to all and the earth to no one.*¹⁷

What is the glue that binds the conspirators, and perpetuates the idea of a world as one?

Secret Societies

Rousseau and Voltaire were Freemasons. It was through secret societies that the philosophic ideas would be transformed for the destruction of civilization to rebuild the perfect utopian society.¹⁸ The origin of Freemasonry had its roots in the founding of the Order of the Templars in Jerusalem during the Crusades in 1118 AD. They became a formidable power in France, independent of the Monarchy. The Grand Orient lodge of Freemasonry was a subversive organization, and as a tool of the Jacobins, a fomentor of the French Revolution. The battle cry of the French Revolution, "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," was definitely Masonic.¹⁹

It was Weishaupt that reduced the various ideas of the philosophers and secret societies to a systematic plan for world revolution. His theory consisted of first: slowly reducing the needs of the individual so that he can get by with as little as possible. Second: universal love must replace love of country and family. Third: reason was to become the only law of man without any controlling authority since, after all, man is inherently good and only needs to be enlightened. Man would be restored to his primitive virtue by removal of all restraints. It is only his circumstances, religion, and restraints that make man bad. "When at last Reason becomes the religion of Men, then will the problem be solved."²⁰

The Order of the Illuminati was arranged in degrees, as in Freemasonry.²¹ Like Freemasonry, the truth and purpose is revealed only in the highest degrees, while in the lowest degrees the initiate is purposely deceived.²² When he finds out the truth, he has been so indoctrinated and bound by oaths and their bloody penalties that most don't object.²³ The penalties themselves were not originally part of Freemasonry, but are remnants of the political conspiracies of the Illuminati and the Jacobites.²⁴

The minds of the common people were sought by gaining influence in the schools.²⁵ Tim LaHaye, referring to the threat of Humanism, points out that the public school is important because it is the most "effective arena in which to make converts to their religion." He also points out that Secular Humanists have gravitated to four major fields for three centuries to fulfill their goals, and in this order: Education, Government, Law, and the Media.²⁶

Weishaupt's plan included a merger of his Order with that of Freemasonry. This was concluded in 1782.²⁷ After reading John Robison's book, Proofs of a Conspiracy, in a letter dated 24 October 1798, George Washington, himself a Mason, responding concerning the Illuminati influence on American lodges said this:

It was not my intention to doubt, the Doctrines of the Illuminati, and principles of Jacobinism had spread in the United States. On the contrary, no one is more truly satisfied of this fact than I am.

The idea that I meant to convey, was, that I did not believe that the Lodges of Free Masons in this Country had, as Societies, endeavored to propagate the diabolical tenets of the first, or pernicious principles of the latter (if they be susceptible of separation). That Individuals of them may have done it, or that the founder, or instrument employed to found, the Democratic Societies in the United States, may have had these objects; and actually had a separation of the People from their Government in view, is too evident to be questioned.²⁸

The Illuminati headquarters was moved to Frankfurt, Germany, which also was the stronghold of the Rothschild financial empire. At a large Masonic congress held at Frankfurt in 1786, the deaths of Louis XVI of France and Gustavus III of Sweden were decreed.²⁹ The aims of the Illuminati may be summarized as follows:

1. Abolition of Monarchy and all ordered Government.
2. Abolition of private property and of inheritance.
3. Abolition of patriotism.

4. Abolition of the family (i.e. of marriage and all morality, and the institution of the communal education of children).
5. Abolition of religion.³⁰

The Modern Form

Whether or not the Illuminati exists today, its spirit continues within various identifiable groups who have followed this plan up to the present time.³¹ The tenets of Communism found in The Communist Manifesto essentially repeat the goals of the Illuminati, and in the same order.³² Likewise, the tenets of Secular Humanism as outlined in their Humanist Manifestos I and II subscribe to similar aims.³³

Negotiating the New World Order

As we have seen, the principles of the Illuminati are alive in the ideals of Socialism, Communism, and Secular Humanism. These groups appear to be distilling into a form of world citizenship.

Mikhail Gorbachev envisions a New World Order, a modern version of Lenin's "Workers Paradise." According to the late Malachi Martin, Gorbachev “envisions a condition in which all national governments as we now know them will cease to exist.” Martin believes that the Western Globalists are following a somewhat different plan to achieve their version of the New World Order. The Globalists believe that the world will naturally progress from “a nation-state democracy into a geopolitical system of world regulation.” This will be brought about by “compacts and agreements and international treaties signed and countersigned by the political bureaucrat, and sealed with the stamp of united nations.”³⁴

In that quintessentially Internationalist view, the General Agreement is a blueprint for what is called a ‘comfortable merger’ of the populations of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Malachi Martin

The General Agreement on Contracts, Exchanges and Scientific Technical Education and Other Fields drawn up by Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Shevardnadze, and signed by Reagan and Gorbachev at the 1985 Geneva Summit, dealt with “the entire cultural life of the United States and the Soviet Union. All branches of the arts were dealt with. It authorized mutual exchange programs, the homogenization of curricula, the sharing of facilities and the mutual indoctrination of the two peoples involved.”³⁵ This is reminiscent of the statement of Ford Foundation President Rowen Gaither to Norman Dodd³⁶ that:

*All of us here at the policy-making level have had experience, either in the OSS, or the European Economic Administration, with directives from the White House.... The substance of them (the directives) is that we shall use our grant-making power so as to alter our life in the United States that we can be comfortably merged with the Soviet Union.*³⁷

The goal of this General Agreement is the realization of the goal of Adam Weishaupt. It is meant, “to transform the shape of the world.” As George Ball has said:

*Sooner or later we are going to have to face restructuring our institutions so that they are not confined merely to the nation-states. Start first on a regional [U.S.A. - USSR] basis, and ultimately you could move to a world basis.*³⁸

Martin sums up:

*In that quintessentially Internationalist view, the General Agreement is a blueprint for what is called a ‘comfortable merger’ of the populations of the United States and the Soviet Union.*³⁹

If this is not conspiracy then I don’t know the meaning of the word!

The New Age

In concert, New Agers and Mega-Religionists work to fuse all religions together “into one globe-spanning mega-religion of mankind.”⁴⁰ With these religious groups, together with political, media, and other leaders, Mikhail Gorbachev, assembled at his Gorbachev Foundation, in San Francisco, from 27 September through 1 October 1995, at his State of the World Forum to discuss the “giving birth to the first global civilization.”⁴¹

This New World matches nicely the New Age “Maitreya” (Messiah) who “would establish the global village.” Like Weishaupt, New Agers look forward to the elimination of national boundaries and the “blending of all nations and peoples into one planetary culture, with a single economic and educational system—all under a single government dominated by a super-bureau of ‘enlightened ones.’”⁴²

The Fox

[T]reaties and engagements have been made void and of no effect through the faithlessness of princes; and he who has known best how to employ the fox has succeeded best.

But it is necessary to know well how to disguise this characteristic, and to be a great pretender and dissembler; and men are so simple, and so subject to present necessities, that he who seeks to deceive will always find someone who will allow himself to be deceived.⁴³

Niccolo Machiavelli

In his book, New Lies for Old, Anatoliy Golitsyn, a Soviet defector and former KGB agent, published in 1984 before the breakup of the Soviet Union, the Eastern Block, and the destruction of the Berlin Wall, accurately prophesies that:

*“Liberalization” in Eastern Europe would probably involve the return to power in Czechoslovakia of Dubcek and his associates. If it should be extended to East Germany, demolition of the Berlin Wall might even be contemplated.*⁴⁴

In The Perestroika Deception, Golitsyn indicates that Gorbachev is a “Trojan horse” trained in his role to engage the American Elite in the strategy of convergence in order to bring about the eventual Communist ideal of a New World Order.⁴⁵ We might inquire as to the whereabouts of Mr. Gorbachev today, since the breakup of the Soviet Union? The San Jose Mercury News of 21 April 1993 carried an article about Gorbachev saying:

*In his speech in San Francisco, Gorbachev announced that the foundation [Gorbachev Foundation located in the San Francisco Presidio Military Installation] is creating a national task force on U.S. military base closings. It will be co-chaired by former San Jose Mayor Tom McEnery and former Democratic Rep. Mel Levine of Southern California.*⁴⁶

Excuse me! Am I missing something? Who made Gorby a United States citizen? Have we lost our senses and invited the fox into our hen house? Or, perish the thought; do our leaders have a different agenda than upholding our national identity, independence, and Constitution? Think about it.

What Does This Mean To You?

Jesus said, "Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come... be ye also ready..."⁴⁷ There are important signs to watch for. We see signs that the world is about to be assembled into a single world government, possibly controlled by the United Nations or a similar organization. The Bible speaks of a time, at the end, when a powerful leader known as the Antichrist will control the world. At that time, according to Revelation chapter 13, no one will be able to buy or sell unless he possesses the "mark of the beast." The day has arrived when it is technically possible to mark every man, woman, and child with a computer chip inserted just under the skin, so that they might buy or sell, except those that haven't the mark. If you take the mark, the Bible says that you will be damned.

The Bible also speaks of a time before the Antichrist attains his power, when Jesus Christ will take believers out of the world, so that they will not face the "wrath of God" coming on the world. This is known as the Rapture, and this event is described in 1 Thessalonians chapters 4 and 5. 1 Thessalonians chapter 5 says that true believers will not be caught unawares by the times, because they are not in darkness. They see the signs.

There was a time, 26 years ago, when I would have rejected an offer of salvation. I would have not considered putting Jesus Christ first in my life. I was too busy chasing the rainbows of the world. If you think for a moment, that we have the ability to reason, and the universe exhibits design, and because of this design, implying a Designer, there must be purpose to our lives other than serving ourselves. If there is a Designer, then He must have given instructions to His creatures. The instructions are in our Bibles that we reject as not relevant for today. Read those instructions, beginning in John. Then, I would urge you, if you have not accepted Jesus Christ as your personal Savior, today is the day. Don't put it off; it might be too late tomorrow. Repent of your sins and ask Jesus to come into your life and change you, just as we did 26 years ago. Then confess Him to others, read the scriptures (beginning with the Gospel of John), and watch the signs of the times, because the time is short. Jesus Christ is coming soon. ΑΩ
